FORGERY CHARGE AGAINST HEADS OF FIRM.

TENDER FOR COAL SUPPLY.

K. C. R. BEHIND THE PROSECUTION.

CHANGE ALLEGED.

Alteration of the name of a particular kind of local submitted in a tender to the Railway Authorities is the substance of a charge of forgery preferred to-day against the Managing Director and the Secretary of the Lee Hing Transportation Company, Limited.

The case was before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning, the accused being Yau Chuen, Managing Director, and Ka Wing, Secretary of the Lee Hing.

For the Police, Chief Detective Inspector Reynolds said that recently tenders were called for by the authorities of the Kowloon-Canton Railway, and among the applications received was one from the Lee Hing Company.

Coal Analysis.

The coal submitted in the tender, continued Mr. Reynolds, had to be first be examined by the Government Analyst, who when made out two copies of his report—the original and the duplicate. The original was attached to the tender while the duplicate was retained by the Analyst.

It was alleged that after the tender from the Lee Hing Company had been received, the original copy of the Analyst's report accompanying it was altered. It was alleged that the name of the coal was altered to show a different kind of coal to that submitted for analysis. This was the only alteration, it was stated. The other details remained as they were.

Mr. Reynolds asked for a remand, stating that the Public Prosecutor would be appearing in the case.

Voluntary Surrender.

For the accused, Mr. F. C. E. Rendall said in connexion with an application for bail, that when a message was received at the offices of the Company from Mr. Walker requiring the attendance of the Managing Director at the offices of the Railway Company, Mr. Yau Chuen, who was unable to speak English, sent his Secretary along at the hour required on Saturday morning. There the Secretary saw Mr. Travers, Mr. Walker and Chief Detective Inspector Reynolds. After the matter had been explained to the Secretary, he was taken by Mr. Reynolds to the Central Police Station.

In the meantime, he (Mr. Rendall) had been instructed to appear in the case, and when it was made known that a warrant would very likely be issued for the arrest of the Managing Director as well, Mr. Yau Chuen went to the Station himself. This action was entirely voluntary.

The case was then formally adjourned for a week, bail in the sum of $500, being accorded to each of the accused.

TWO SOLDIERS MISSING.

UNIFORMS FOUND AT THE KOWLOON GODOWNS.

Two privates of the South Wales Borderers are reported to have absented themselves from their battalion on Saturday and have not been seen since, although their uniforms, which they are believed to have discarded, were discovered by the police at the Kowloon Godowns.

According to a report issued from Police Headquarters, Detective Sub-Inspector A. H. Elston found two military uniforms, consisting of two tunics, two caps, two belts, and two pairs of braces, lying discarded at the Kowloon Godowns. They bore the badges of the South Wales Borderers and are believed to have belonged to Privates Booth and Hornsby, who have been absent from barracks since Saturday.

DRAMATIC WORLD AIR RACE.

ATTACKS ON

EIGHT PARTIES

SPECTACULAR FLIGHTS.

A dramatic air race, with the round the world record as the prize, is now in prospect, no fewer than eight different contenders, all American, having brought their preparations to the verge of completion. It is anticipated that all eight parties will start their great venture before the end of June.

One or two of them, including the well-known globe trotter, John Henry Mears, and two new adventurers, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, have finished tinkering with their planes, and are only waiting favourable weather to take off.

Plans for the record-attacking flights involve non-stop journeys across the Atlantic.

Zeppelin's Feat.

The record being attacked is that of the Graf Zeppelin which established the splendid time of 21 days for the journey.

Prior to the Graf Zeppelin's record trip the best time was 23 days, made by John Henry Mears and the late Capt. Charles L. D. Collyer.

Mears, with Vance Breese, a west coast flyer, is one of the entries in this year's round-the-world Derby, although he has encountered delays in obtaining permission to land in Russia.

All the other fliers have had hundreds of hours in the air and are experienced navigators. All feel confident that the record taken from the United States by Dr. Hugo Eckener and his "big bag," as the fliers dub the Zeppelin, will be recaptured.

Mr. Reynolds asked for a remand, stating that the Public Prosecutor would be appearing in the case.

Voluntary Surrender.

For the accused, Mr. F. C. E. Rendall said in connexion with an application for bail, that when a message was received at the offices of the Company from Mr. Walker requiring the attendance of the Managing Director at the offices of the Railway Company, Mr. Yau Chuen, who was unable to speak English, sent his Secretary along at the hour required on Saturday morning. There the Secretary saw Mr. Travers, Mr. Walker and Chief Detective Inspector Reynolds. In the meantime, he (Mr. Rendall) had been instructed to appear in the case, and when it was made known that a warrant would very likely be issued for the arrest of the Managing Director as well, Mr. Yau Chuen went to the Station himself. This action was entirely voluntary.

The case was then formally adjourned for a week, bail in the sum of $500, being accorded to each of the accused.

GOLD BULLION MYSTERY.

LOSS OF THE CITY
OF RIO.

TREASURE YARN HELD TO BE A MYTH.

TRAGEDY OF 1901.

Mystery attaches to the report that a San Francisco salvage firm, having located the wreck of the Rio de Janeiro, which sank at the entrance to San Francisco Bay on February 22, 1901, on a voyage from Shanghai, intends to search for gold bullion reported on board the ship when she sank.

A report of the wreck of the vessel published in the "North-China Daily News" on February 25, 1901, makes no mention of the bullion stated to have been carried from Shanghai.

The paper reported: One hundred and twenty-two lives were lost when the Pacific Mail steamer City of Rio de Janeiro from Hongkong and Yokohama struck a rock and sank outside San Francisco harbour.

Under in 20 Minutes.

Fogbound, the ship survived the pounding of waves only twenty minutes before going to the bottom. Terror and panic among the passengers hampered attempts at rescue work. Liferafts capsized in launching, and occupants were thrown headlong into the sea.

The drowned include 24 saloon passengers, 19 officers and crew, and 43 Asiatic passengers. Only 79 were saved including 12 cabin and 15 Asiatic passengers, and 11 of the officers and crew. Among those who were drowned were the American Consul-General of Hongkong, Mr. R. Wildman, and his family. Captain Ward was on the bridge until the ship sank, and he went down with it.

A further report stated: "The City of Rio de Janeiro, a three-masted steamer of 2,276 tons net and 700 horsepower, was built at Chester, Pennsylvania, in 1878.

Though not the most favoured ship on the Pacific, the Rio enjoyed a long and prosperous career. Captain Ward was regarded as one of the best men in the service. He was popular with his passengers and crew, and his death will be regretted by former sailing mates and land acquaintances."

Mr. W. Whiley, manager of the Sperry Flour Co., Hongkong, was the first to receive news of the disaster, in a brief received cable from San Francisco dated 22nd inst., 4.20 p.m. that the City of Rio had sunk near Fort Point. The Router telegram arrived shortly after, giving more partic-

Although it is reported that the salvagers are seeking a large con-

AN EMPIRE DAY TEA PARTY.

GENERAL AS HOST OF GIRL GUIDES.

In connexion with the Empire Day celebrations, the Girl Guides of Hongkong were entertained to tea by Major-General J. W. Sandilands, General Officer Commanding, South China Command, at Flagstaff House yesterday evening.

The Guide companies were mustered on the lawn under their different Captains, the whole parade being in charge of Mrs. W. T. Southorn, Commissioner. After they had been inspected, the girls adjourned to the hall, where General Sandilands welcomed them. In doing so he said:

Mrs. Southorn: I am sure that you realize what a very great pleasure it is for me to be able to entertain the Hongkong Girl Guides at tea on Empire Day, more especially as it falls upon me to do so in one of the most distant Colonies in the British Empire.

The chief point of celebrating Empire Day is to provide a means for making the inhabitants of the British Empire, more especially young people and children, realize that we are all part of one big family, rather than a collection of separate countries and colonies.

May 24th is a peculiarly appropriate date for its celebration as it was the birthday of Queen Victoria, who, as you all know, reigned for no less than 67 years.

As far as the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides are concerned, it is not an exaggeration to state that the movement is one of the most remarkable developments in modern times. It is a movement which knows of no distinction of creed, religion, or race. It exists for one purpose and for one purpose only, which is to turn out boys and girls as good and useful citizens. I understand that there are close upon a million Girl Guides in the world at the present time.

I do not propose to deal in detail with the Girl Guide movement, which is much better done by your own leaders, but I feel competent to deal with it in the larger sense.

To my mind one of the chief causes of the trouble which appears to exist throughout the whole world is due to class distinction and prejudices. It is due to people, instead of trying to find out the good points in each other, going out of their way to find out the bad points. After all, no one is perfect, but it must be a very remarkable boy or girl who does not possess a considerable amount of good points in character, but they do not necessarily appear on the surface.

The Boy Scout and Girl Guide movement is a wonderful means of bringing all classes together and affording them an opportunity of getting to know each other, no matter in what grade of society they may have been brought up.

It is in this spirit that we are assembled here to-day. It is not of the slightest consequence to any of us, whether a Girl Guide is the daughter of a leading Tapiwan or Compradore in Hongkong, or the daughter of a subordinate in a business firm; nor is it of any consequence whether her father is an officer or a private soldier.

We are all assembled here to enjoy ourselves and to get to know each other, and in that spirit I would invite you all to do justice to the tea, and unless I am very much mistaken I am sure that there is certainly no difference in the amount that a young girl can eat, no matter whether she has been brought up in luxury or in a humble home.

Among those present were Mrs. H. Owen Hughes (District Commissioner, Kowloon), Mrs. Anderson (District Commissioner Hongkong), Mrs. Lack (Equipment Secretary), Mrs. Phillips (Badge Secretary) and Mrs. King (Secretary).

OBITUARY.

PRESIDENT OF ALL-INDIA MUSLIMS.

Lucknow, May 23.
The death has occurred of Sir Mohamed Ali Mohamed Khan President of the All-India Muslim League.—Reuters.

[Mohamed Ali, the Indian Moslem leader and brother of the equally well known Shaukat Ali, was born in Dec. 1878, and educated at Rampur State School, Bareilly High School, the college at Aligarh and Lincoln College, Oxford. After acting in 1902-3 as chief educational officer for Rampur State, he joined the Gaekwar's civil service in 1904. In 1906 Ali founded the All-India Moslem League. Fourteen years later he was instrumental in developing the college at Aligarh into the National Moslem University. In 1910 he gave up his official post to edit the Comrade, weekly paper in English, published first at Calcutta and then at Delhi, up to 1914. He also started at Delhi in 1913 the Hundred, an Urdu daily paper. From 1915 to 1919 he was interned under the Defence of India Act. The Swarajists were not satisfied with the Montagu-Chelmsford reform scheme and the brothers Ali became Gandhi's strong supporters in the non-co-operation movement which he launched against the diarchy. Indian Moslems were also dissatisfied with the way Turkey was treated by the British after the war. From this grievance sprang the dangerous Khilafat movement, so called because its aim was to restore the power of the Sultan as Khalifa of Islam. It was initiated by the Ali brothers in 1920 and Mohamed Ali headed the Indian Khilafat delegation which visited Europe in that year. Out of this agitation arose the serious Moplah rebellion in Aug. 1921. In November the two brothers were given two years' rigorous imprisonment for sedition.

Since then, however, owing largely to racial and religious riots the Hindu-Moslem pact has weakened considerably. In 1927 the All-India Moslem League favoured a boycott of the Simon Commission, but when Gandhi started his civil disobedience campaign in 1930 as a protest against the failure to grant immediate Swaraj, the Ali brothers repudiated Gandhi, denounced his campaign and urged participation in the Round Table Conference. Mohamed said Gandhi's movement was a desperate attempt by caste-ridden Hindus to dominate the Moslems. "If," he added, "we cannot remain a dependency of the British, we cannot consent to become dependants of the Hindus either. If after the Round Table Conference our demands are not satisfied, it will be time enough to assert India's independence and to walk out of the conference."

The Boy Scout and Girl Guide movement is a wonderful means of bringing all classes together and affording them an opportunity of getting to know each other, no matter in what grade of society they may have been brought up.

Empire Day at Home.

London, May 23.
Empire Day Celebrations were held to-day, as the actual anniversary, May 24, falls on Sunday. The celebrations included a big demonstration this afternoon in Hyde Park at which the massed bands of the Brigade of Guards and a special choir led community singing, including Sir Edward Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory" which the composer himself conducted.

A movement, headed by the Duke of Connaught, has been set on foot

Film Gone...teeth regain sparkling whiteness

Film, too, is the source of serious tooth and gum disorders. Dentists urge special film-removing dentifrice.

FILM robs teeth of brilliant whiteness and is known to be the basis of decay, the chief cause of pyorrhoea.

You can feel film with your tongue—a slippery, viscous coating. It clings to teeth and gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs stains from food and smoking and turns white teeth "off color." Film hardens into tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, plus tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhoea.

To remove film, dentists prescribe the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film so that brushing easily removes it in gentle safety to enamel. In a few days teeth grow whiter and begin to sparkle. They continue to improve for months. Start today.

Pepsodent contains no pumice, harmful grit or crude abrasive. It is so safe that dentists recommend it for cleaning the soft teeth of children.

HOW TO GET RID OF INDIGESTION.

Those who suffer from indigestion gastritis, acidity, flatulence, dyspepsia, heartburn, etc., will be glad to learn that instant relief can be obtained by taking a little "Bisacurated" Magnesia immediately after eating or whenever pain is felt. This instantly neutralises the acid that causes all the trouble, stops the fermentation, heals and soothes the inflamed stomach lining, and restores painless, normal digestion. Get a package of "Bisacurated" Magnesia powder or tablets of your chemist to-day; use as directed, and you will soon be telling your friends how you got rid of indigestion.

WOMEN'S WORLD FOR OUR LADY READERS.

New Jewellery Ensemble.

New is the jewellery ensemble of scintillating collar necklace and ornamental coiffure comb; pictured above.

The necklace is made of gleaming globes of cut crystal, with several more rows to give greater depth to the front than back. The entire outer edge has a pointed lower surface to give a lacey edge to it.

The comb, to be stuck into your new snood or worn just above your curls, is set with the same crystal, cut to sparkle mightily. The entire upper edge of this also has the lacey cut of the necklace.

YOUR CHILDREN.

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

Nature has endowed men and women with different temperaments, evidently with good intent, for everything in nature has a reason.

But this very difference makes the rearing of children difficult because the child and his problems are too likely to be a source of friction between mother and father.

I suppose we should look at it this way, that it is right there should be a difference of opinion, if the child is to have a balanced life.

The father is likely to look to character, the mother to health welfare. Not that mothers are not on the qui vive to develop all that is fine and good in character, but there is no question that this urge is frequently overshadowed by anxiety for physical welfare and comfort.

A father is prone to use sterner methods, and to try to bring out the iron in his children's characters by firm handling, and to his wife's distress, a little less coding and sympathy than she would prefer him to use.

This is where we get the fine balance of development, but it is the source, too, of that unfortunate friction which has made too many dinner-table scenes of distress. For no matter what the cause of difference of opinion between man and wife, it is quickly lost sight of in the personal antagonism that too frequently ensues.

Pawns of Revenge.

As a matter of fact, when there is strain and unfriendliness to begin with between parents, the children are often used as a pretext to work out revenge on each other, and they will deliberately give conflicting orders to their boys and girls, to work out a deep-rooted spite.

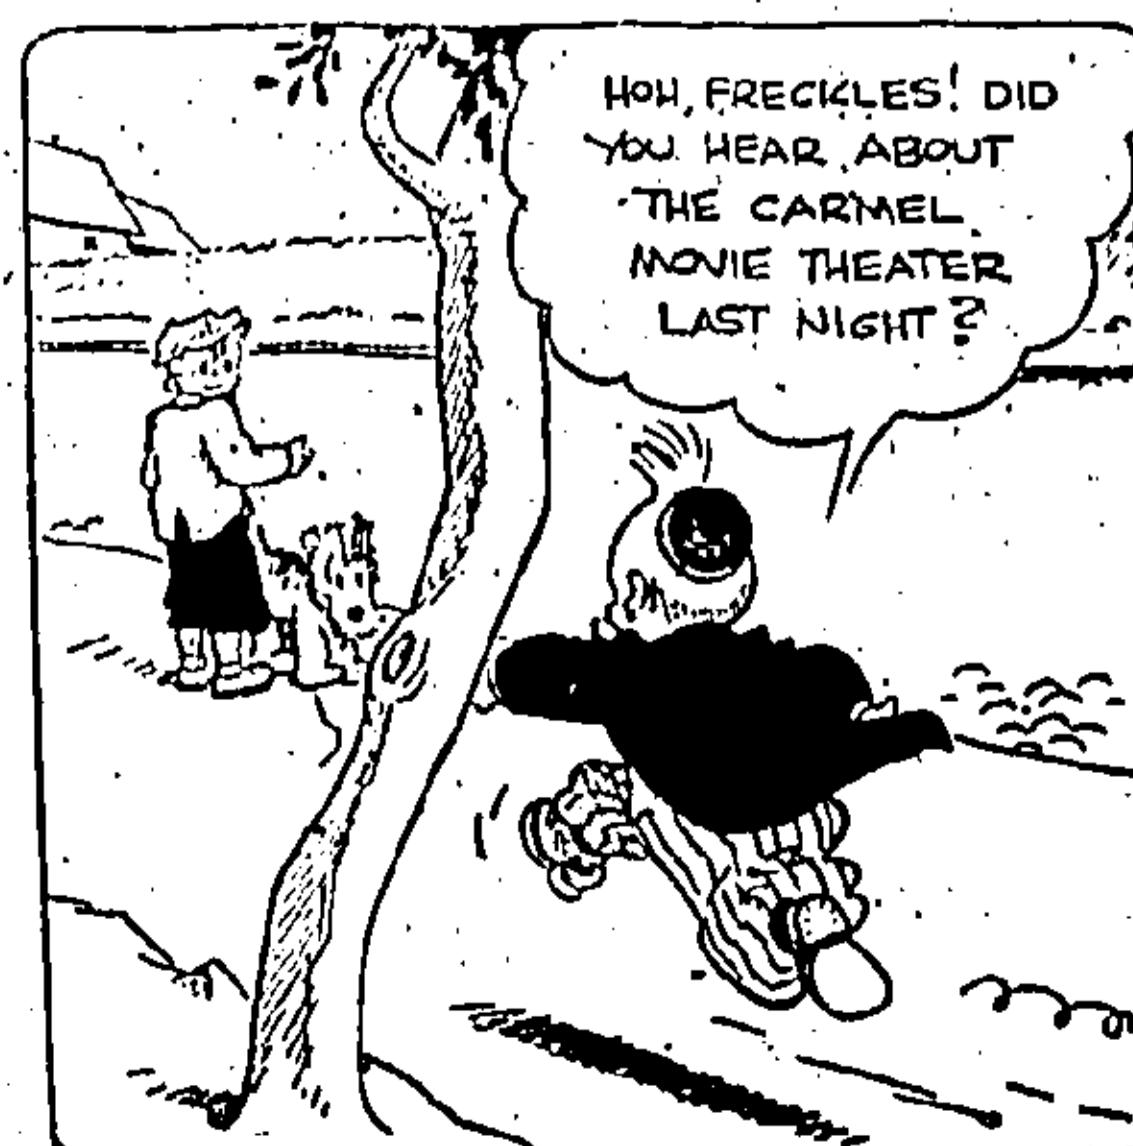

This is the most unhappy state of affairs that I know of in any home, for it is the children who suffer. However, conflict arising from an honest difference of ideas is a different matter. Probably there is hardly a child who escapes that in some degree.

What all men and women with children might do to help out a bad situation is for each to try to understand that her husband's methods, if not too extreme, are as necessary as hers, that they prepare the children for the stern knocks of life later on, better than her constant forgiving and petting.

The husband should do the same for children's physical and temperament make-up must be considered and he must not ride rough-shod over these sensitive spirits.

Co-operation in such matters is usually necessary.

WHEAT CONFERENCE.

PROPOSED CLEARING HOUSE FOR INFORMATION.

London, May 23.

The final plenary session of the International Wheat Conference today decided to appoint a committee to submit a proposal to establish a clearing house for information to explore avenues of the greater utilisation of wheat, and further to make preparations to carry on the aims of the Conference.—Reuter.

Will Not Resign.

London, May 23. Dr. Christopher Addison, Minister for Agriculture, has emphatically denied the rumour of the possibility of his resignation from the Cabinet. He says the Cabinet policy on the wheat question had not yet been decided but he is distinctly hopeful about the prospects.—British Wireless.

London, May 23.

An agreement was reached at a meeting in Manchester yesterday of the Chemical Trade Joint Industrial Council as to wage reduction. The agreement which affects more than 8,000 workers, provided that the standard rate in federated works for day labourers should be reduced to 1/- per hour, and that of shift men to 1s. 1½d. per hour.

Men receiving rates more than the recommended minimum will suffer equal reductions, and piece workers will be asked to accept a reduction of five per cent.

The employers' representative, in announcing the agreement, said that both sides to the negotiations had evinced the keenest desire to make the best of an admittedly difficult position.—British Wireless.

GREED AS CAUSE OF DEPRESSION.

The United States is at the moment greatly interesting itself in the causes of the present industrial depression, and one observer, a Senator, probably comes closer to the out-and-out radical position than he realises in assigning the origin of the trouble. Asked who was responsible for the depression, he remarked that while he did not know who the guilty individuals might be, he knew very well what the underlying cause was—unrestrained greed. "And," he added, "all those who are actuated by unrestrained greed share in the responsibility." It is refreshing to find a leader in politics getting away from the old habit of blaming catastrophes on individuals. The Senator insists that it is not a question of "who" is to blame, but a question of "what"—in other words, that the trouble does not spring from the wickedness of perverted individuals, but from a basic force that finds expression in many lives and in many ways.

This is coming close to stepping over the line into the field of the Socialists and the Communists. It is one of the basic tenets of their creed. And we can agree with it without in any way adopting socialism or communism. The outlook is worth looking into. The radical declares that we shall never be happy until we change our economic system. The present system, he asserts, was built for the benefit of private profit. It serves only the greedy; it promotes greed, makes it the only mainspring of human endeavour. Consequently, he says, the ill that greed brings cannot be removed until the system is changed.

Perhaps, the most remarkable aspect of present-day politics is the way in which people who have no use for either socialism or communism are beginning to accept at least a part of this viewpoint. The Senator we have quoted—who is not apt to turn "red" overnight—excoriates the moving force of greed. Henry Ford, equally far removed from the lads, says that one of the chief contests in industry to-day is between those whose first interest is in making profits and those whose first interest is in making things.

We are likely to hear a great deal more about this as the months go on. The most encouraging thing about the whole situation to-day is the fact that it is stimulating men to question things that never before were doubted. Greed—or, to put it more simply, the desire to make big profits—does not seem to be quite as benevolent a force in human affairs as it used to appear. The American Senator's complaint is likely to be repeated very often in the near future.

Our Silent Navy.

The mystery of H.M.S. Sterling remains; but it is a mystery not of the purpose of her sudden despatch from Hongkong at dawn on Saturday, but of why the naval authorities insisted upon maintaining an air of secrecy in an apparently very simple matter. We are now told that disturbances in Hoihow necessitated the despatch of H.M.S. Somme to the south to protect British residents, if occasion arose, and that the Sterling was sent to Bias Bay to release the Somme. If that is the whole story, it is respectfully submitted that the public might easily have been given a hint of the nature of the emergency even if it was felt inexpedient to disclose all the facts. While it is reasonable to avoid the creation of alarm, a possibility if unverified rumours are published, it is also reasonable to expect the public to take an interest in naval affairs when cinema performances are suddenly interrupted so as to issue pre-emptory orders to naval ratings to return from shore leave to their ship. Speculation merely increases when the Navy adheres firmly to its tradition. The Silent Service, wraps its doings in an air of mysteriousness, and merely states that a warship has been sent out in consequence of certain rumours. In these circumstances, somewhat remarkable is the suggestion made that official naval circles deprecated the resultant "mystery" which, it is submitted, was of their own making. Still less do we understand the attitude adopted throughout now the facts are disclosed. A simple statement that the Somme had been despatched to Hoihow in consequence of rumours of trouble, to render protection to British subjects if necessary, would have prevented a deal of fruitless worrying over the possibility of serious trouble in centres where conditions were actually normal. Some months ago, when there was fear for the safety of British and American missionaries at Hoihow, no secret was made of the fact that warcraft had been sent to the scene. Why similar frankness was not observed on Saturday, we cannot understand.

MUTINY AT HOIHOW.

H.M.S. SOMME LEAVES FOR SCENE.

A mutiny of some remnants of the Peace Preservation Corps consisting of the 1st and 3rd Brigades, stationed at Hoihow, Hainan Island, in southern Kwangtung, caused perturbation among foreign residents, resulting in the dispatch from Hongkong of H.M.S. Sterling on Friday to Bias Bay to relieve H.M.S. Somme, which had left for Hoihow to assist in the withdrawal of the small European community. The latter consists of the British Consul, the Commissioner of Customs, Mr. Frost of the Asiatic Petroleum Co., and Mr. Cuthbert, agent for Messrs. Butterfield and Swire.

It will be recalled that on the 13th instant three Regiments of Peace Preservation Corps stationed at Whampao revolted, declaring for Nanking and fighting against the Canton Government. They were disarmed with heavy casualties. There is no doubt that the disturbance at Hoihow is inspired by Nanking, but resentment by the Peace Preservation Corps officials of Canton's appointment of new commanders over them forms one of the immediate causes of the mutiny. The Hoihow mutineers have declared against Canton and are making extensive preparations for war at Man Cheung. The Canton Navy states that no official report of heavy fighting has been received although a regiment from Canton was prevented from landing at Hoihow by the mutineers.

While the Canton Navy is sparing no effort to suppress the revolt, the considered opinion of Cantonese officials in Hongkong is that as the mutineers are isolated, their suppression, like

Mr. Miles Vaughn, Manager for the United Press in the Far East, arrived from Japan with Mrs. Vaughn on the Asama Maru on 11 May.

Among those elected Fellows of the Royal Empire Society at the last meeting of the Council were Mr. and Mrs. G. Harman and Mr. John Barnet, Hongkong.

Mrs. C. E. Wentcott, draughtsman of the Royal Naval Yard and J. F. G. Richards, clerk, who left for Home by the P. & O. Comorin, were the recipients at the Naval Yard on Friday, of gifts from their colleagues.

Injured by a piece of rock which became dislodged from the hillside at the junction of Waterloo Road and Argyle Street, where he had been working, a coolie was taken to the Kowloon Hospital on Saturday suffering from a fractured arm.

A coolie on board the steam launch Kwong Man Yat was taken to the Kwong Wah Hospital yesterday suffering from immersion, through falling in to the typhoon shelter at Yaumati whilst attempting to board a sampan from his launch.

Suffering from injuries to his head, through being knocked down by tramcar No. 38, whilst carrying a bale of paper from a godown to a sampan at West Point, a coolie of 113, First Street, was removed to the Government Civil Hospital, where he subsequently died.

Through falling into the mullah in Waterloo Road, a Chinese farmer, Li Hong (33) of a matchshop at Homuntin, received injuries to his right leg and was taken to the Kowloon Hospital for treatment. He had been drawing water from the mullah for his garden when he lost his footing. His condition is considered serious.

Whilst driving a motor car in Nathan Road, near Public Square Street, in the Yaumati District on Saturday, Miss F. T. Lee, of the Diocesan Girls' School, knocked down Leung Chuen, aged 24, a married woman, of 26, Kimberley Street. The victim was taken to the Kowloon Hospital suffering from injuries to her left shoulder and legs.

All Quiet.

Canton, May 24.

It is learned from Admiral Chan Chak that the 2nd Regiment of the Peace Preservation Corps, which recently revolted at Hoihow, was disarmed by the forces of Gen. Chan Chai-long on the 22nd inst, after a hard fight. The regiment is now disbanded, and Hoihow is again quiet.

Admiral Chan Chak called a meeting of the commanders of the Cantonese Navy on the night of 22nd inst, to settle queries concerning his position. The result of the meeting was a resolution in support of the anti-Chiang movement.—Rensha.

Here they first met Von Veltheim, afterwards charged with blackmailing the Joes. The Barnato firm prospered exceedingly under the brilliant control of Barney. He knew all the ropes; worked night and day; eagerly gathered all the news from club, bar, and market.

Finally, in 1880, the two brothers founded the firm of Barnato Brothers.

They started the Barnato Diamond Mining Company, subsequently amalgamating it with an equally promising organisation, the Standard.

This combination was further strengthened by amalgamation with the Kimberley Diamond Mine, in which Barney had become a big shareholder.

Their success benefited the three Joes, who now graduated in Kimberley as diamond experts and financiers.

Here they first met Von Veltheim, afterwards charged with blackmailing the Joes.

The Barnato firm prospered exceedingly under the brilliant control of Barney.

He knew all the ropes; worked night and day; eagerly gathered all the news from club, bar, and market;

was always keen after business

"pointers."

He was "out for money," and was a shrewd judge in mining and finance.

His shrewd judgment in mining and finance enabled him to seize golden opportunities missed by slower-witted men, who enviously murmured: "Just Barney's luck."

Naturally enough, he rapidly conquered a prominent position in Kimberley as a man who had to be reckoned with by the strongest.

He soon realised that, unless strong measures were taken to scientifically organise this splendid industry, the ruinous confusion would continue. He saw that safety and success lay in the gradual amal-gamisation of all the mines.

Another strong, cunning financial—Cecil Rhodes—had arrived at the same conclusion.

He was engineering the De Beers

Company with some friends; aiming at gradually absorbing the other mines. Obviously the two men's interests were bound to clash.

They finally fought that long and memorable financial battle which culminated in a victory for

Rhodes, backed by the Rothschilds and Alfred Beit. But Barnato only yielded on terms which made him a millionaire, and gave him and his relations a splendid interest in the great De Beers diamond monopoly.

This success enabled them to participate in the exploitation of the newly-discovered Rand goldfields.

A RAND ROMANCE. HOW THE JOEL FAMILY ACQUIRED MILLIONS.

Of all the kaffir magnates, the Joes have had the most extraordinary record. Woolf, Solomon, and John practically owed their introduction to fortune to their uncles, Henry and Barney Isaacs—the names they bore until they adopted that of Barnato. Henry was the first to emigrate to South Africa. Having, while in England, developed his talent as a conjurer, he continued his performances around Kimberley, where he often called himself "Signor Barnato, the Great Wizard." Fortunately for all concerned, the hardy diamond pioneers did not appreciate his necromancy, so that, compelled to adopt a more lucrative occupation, he plunged into "kopej-walloping." In the early days at Kimberley the diamonds were obtained from the kopjes, or small hills, near the camp.

The dealers, or "walloper," usually trotted from one to the other, purchasing the funds as they were sorted out. Non-success involved a life of slavery and privation. Thousands from all parts had become diamond diggers selling their valuable stones for ridiculous prices. Natives exchanged them for oxen, guns, or brandy. Diamond stealing and illicit diamond buying were rampant. Business was conducted on chaotic principles; some made rapid fortunes; others blew out their brains in despair. While Henry Barnato achieved no brilliant success, he performed one epoch-making exploit—he sent for his brother Barney, then about twenty, who ultimately made them all millionaires.

The Rise of Barney Barnato.

Yet Barney's start was not brilliant; on arrival business was so bad that his brother could not employ him. He therefore started "kopej-walloping" with Louis Cohen. Capital, £100, subscribed by Cohen; 60 boxes of cigars, contributed by Barney. Their life was distinctly original; they worked like coolies, fed like kaffirs, and dreamed of future millions. During the cold season the partners

CHIANG'S POLICY DENOUNCED.

MR. EUGENE CHEN ON DICTATORSHIP.

REVOLT EXPLAINED.

Noted Chinese politicians aligning themselves with the anti-Chiang movement arrived in the Colony from Shanghai yesterday aboard the N.Y.K. liner Asama Maru and later in the day left for Canton by special train. Amongst the party were Mr. and Mrs. Sun Fo, Mr. Eugene Chen and Mr. Wang Ching-wei.

Describing the movement against Marshal Chiang Kai-shek as an attempt to remove the personal dictatorial form of government established in Nanking, Mr. Eugene Chen, former Foreign Minister of the Canton and Hankow Government, told a press representative at the Peninsula Hotel yesterday that the Shanghai report that he was in the South on a peace mission was entirely false and he desired to contradict it in the strongest terms. Mr. Chen said that in fact everything issued by Nanking was false.

"We don't believe in a dictatorial Kuomintang, as the latter is only the trustee of the nation."

Marshal Chiang had called Chen's Mussolini, Mr. Chen said, but Marshal Chiang looked upon Chen as his private property. "Mussolini is a man with a modern mind, although one may not approve of his methods of dictatorship," said Mr. Chen.

Centuries Apart.

"I have read criticism of Mussolini by the latter's bitterest opponents, but never heard it said that he governs Italy for his family. He governs it as a nation—the possession of Italy's people. There is a chasm of centuries between the minds of these two men. Chiang is a man of mediæval mind whose conception of China is as his private and family property. China and her people will never tolerate such a ruler. Such a creature will be resisted, fought and destroyed."

Commenting on the National Convention recently organised in Nanking Mr. Chen said that the Convention delegates were picked by Marshal Chiang, who desired to legalise the personal dictatorship which he has been able to establish in Nanking.

Referring to the possibility of a war Mr. Chen said that Nanking was not in a position to make war as Marshal Chiang's armies would not obey him. Whether there would be a civil war rested with Chiang. If he was an enlightened ruler he would retire without fighting, as the nation desired his elimination from office.

Reorganisation Movement Dead.

This was a movement by the entire party, including the Nanking section of the Kuomintang, the Rightists, Leftists and Independents like Mr. Chen himself. It was a national movement in which Marshals Feng Yu-hsiang and Yen Hsi-shan, of North China, would also join, although the movement was initiated in Canton, which had a history of its own. It was incorrect to regard this movement as a Leftist or Reorganisationist movement. The Reorganisationist faction was a fragment of the Kuomintang Leftist party, a fragment which had become a historical curiosity.

Mr. Chen Kung-wei, who coined the label, "Reorganisationist," has telegraphed to Mr. Wang Ching-wei, head of the Kuomin-tang Leftist Party, repudiating the existence of the Reorganisation Party.

Answering a question by the Pressman, Mr. Chen said that if the Nanking Government were to negotiate a loan with foreign countries at present for the purpose of raising money for war purposes such a loan would undoubtedly be repudiated.

The ex-Foreign Minister went to say that after the retirement of Chiang Kai-shek, who has taken upon himself rights inherent in the people, the reconstituted Kuomintang leadership would take control.

Police Precautions.

Extraordinary precautionary measures were adopted yesterday morning to ensure the safety of Messrs. Sun Fo and Eugene Chen and some twenty Nationalist officials from Shanghai who accompanied them. Long before the arrival of the vessel at the Kowloon wharf a large party of Chinese was advised to leave the wharf by the Police. No one was permitted to go on board until the two officials had left for the Peninsula Hotel. To avoid possible enemies, the Chinese officials were travelling under assumed names.

A conference of great political importance was held shortly after their arrival between the two Nanking leaders and Messrs. Wang Ching-wei, General Hsu Sung-chi, Mr. Tang Shao-yl, Gen. Fei Chung-hsi and representatives of military commanders from Canton. A gunboat was sent down the RED ROUND-UP IN TOKYO.

SENSATIONAL DISCLOSURES BY POLICE.

HUGE ORGANIZATION.

Tokyo, May 20.

With the removal of the press ban, further details are now available regarding the Communist round-up in February, 1930, when the Japanese police conducted their third big round-up of Reds since 1928.

It is revealed that sensational disclosures have been made regarding the killing and wounding of policemen, the dissemination of Communist teachings in higher educational establishments, and the foiling of attempts to obtain arms and ammunition and to set fire to the Diet and other Government buildings.

As the result of the round up 173 active Communists and 36 sympathisers, including a number of university professors and well-known writers, were indicted at Tokyo.

College Graduates.

Ninety-three of the Communists had received college educations and among them were 31 graduates of the Imperial University and 16 of Waseda University, while two of the arrested professors held chairs in the Imperial University.

The arrested persons included seven women and the nephew of Gaku Sano, the former Communist leader, who was arrested at Shanghai in 1929; and Seigen Tanaka, who succeeded Sano.

Most of the arrested persons were under 30 years of age. Tanaka's mother committed suicide on hearing of her son's arrest.

Compared with the two previous round-ups, the round-up last year resulted in fewer indictments, but the movement appears to have been more widespread and dangerous, as several of the Communists were armed with pistols and daggers with which they resisted arrest.

Desperate Struggles.

A number of tragic and melodramatic incidents are recorded, these involving desperate struggles and the death or wounding of several policemen.

The disclosures reveal interesting details as to the methods of financing the movement, which apparently came entirely from internal sources, no money having been received from abroad, though several of the leaders appear to have had their training to Moscow.

Other details include accounts of secret meetings, the organisation of "cells" in dockyards and factories, and the pains taken to conceal the identity of active participants, who were known by numbers instead of names and who were constantly moving their headquarters for the purpose of evading the police.

Canton, which, however, was not used, as the leaders preferred the railway.

Departure for Canton.

The following leaders left for Canton by special train leaving Kowloon at 12.20 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Sun Fo, Mr. Eugene Chen, Mr. Wang Ching-wei, Mr. Tsou Lu, Mr. Tang Shao-yl, and Generals Tang Sung-chi, Hsu Sung-chi, Ngai Bong-ping (ex-Canton Military Governor) Pei Chung-hsi (Kwangsi) and others.

Shanghai Reports.

Shanghai, May 23. It is disclosed that Sun Fo is carrying to Canton definite proposals for a peaceful settlement of the political situation, and a feeling of optimism prevails here regarding the outcome of his mission.

Before departing from Shanghai Sun Fo had a conference with several of the "elder statesmen," at which it was suggested that a good deal of friction might be avoided by putting Party and Government affairs under entirely separate administrations—a suggestion which Nanking is reported to approve.

An important peace move was made last night by the famous statesman Wu Tze-hui, who, following a lengthy conference with Chiang Kai-shek at Tungpan, telegraphed to Koo Ying-fan stating that Chang Chi, the Vice-President of the Judicial Yuan, was proceeding to Canton immediately to "talk over matters."

Wu Tze-hui who has considerable influence in political circles is an ardent advocate of peace.—Reuter.

WOMEN ATTEMPT SUICIDE.

FOUR CASES REPORTED THIS WEEK-END.

ONE ENDS FATALLY.

Several attempted suicides by women were brought to the notice of the police during the week-end. In one case the victim was beyond medical treatment although she was rushed to hospital immediately on the discovery being made.

According to intimation made to the police by fellow tenants of 92 Wellington Street, Chan Chat, a Chinese woman aged about 26 years, who resided on the premises, committed suicide by taking opium poisoning. She was discovered in a serious condition at 12.15 p.m. on Saturday and rushed to the Government Civil Hospital but succumbed in less than an hour afterwards.

Mercurin poison was stated to have been taken by Cheung Sung-ying, a widow, aged 34 of 2, Mu Hing Street, Wan Chai, at 4 p.m. yesterday. She was taken to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment but her condition is not serious.

Ching Sin-lin, a woman residing temporarily at 67, Hollywood Road, first floor, attempted to commit suicide at 53, Woosung Street shortly after midnight on Saturday by taking an overdose of opium. She was admitted to the Kwong Wah Hospital. Her condition is not considered serious. From the Shamshuipo district, Chiu Sui-ye, a woman residing at 233, Lai-chi-kok Road, second floor, was removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital suffering from the effects of opium poisoning stated to have been self-administered.

WHAT THE GENERAL SAID.

WIRELESS BAN ON A FAMOUS VICTORY.

Philadelphia, April 26. What the Sergeant told the General should not be told in turn to civilian ears, according to wireless censors who abruptly cut off a speech by General Shadley Butler at an artillery officers' dinner in Philadelphia last night.

General Butler, who is America's foremost soldier, was recounting with vivid eloquence how he captured Fort Rivière, in Hayti, and he described how, while he was summoning his courage for the attack, a sergeant said, "Hell! I'll go first."

The manager of the radio station heard the General's quotation of this expletive, nearly fainted, immediately stopped the broadcast and announced to listeners that he had cut General Butler off for using profane and indecent language.

A Storm.

Finding he was prating into a dead microphone, General Butler and a number of friends, including several judges, left the banquet and stormed into the wireless station, demanding an apology. It is said there was a scene of great indignation, but the General was persuaded to return to the banquet.

The wireless station announced that he would never be allowed on the air again if he did not mend his language.

The comedy has been heightened by General Butler demanding an apology from the Haitian Government because its Minister at Washington was reported as saying "that no such place as Fort Rivière ever existed and that the General's heroism was therefore imaginary."

The Minister to-day denied this implication, but intimated that General Butler's victory was gained over men without adequate arms. The diplomatic tension is still acute.

Washington recently apologised to Signor Mussolini for an attack made upon him by General Butler.

PAROCHIAL LONDON.

ONE RULING BODY SUGGESTED.

The average Londoner does not think "in terms of London," but thinks in a parochial sense; and has no citizenship like that of Manchester, Birmingham and other great cities.

This was an opinion expressed by Mr. A. G. Chamings, formerly chief officer of the London County Council Public Control Department, in a paper on "The Ideal Government of London," read before the Institute of Public Administration at Westminster City Hall.

Mr. Chamings suggested that London should be governed by one central body, to which the present duties of the borough councils should be transferred.

"I am convinced," he added, "that one of the chief causes of the lack of homogeneous feeling of citizenship in London is the effect of its division into 25 areas. There is no London tradition."

THIS AFTERNOON RACING.

SITTING BULL EXPECTED TO WIN.

[By "Ringtail".]

The second stage of the Sixth Extra Race Meeting at Happy Valley this afternoon should attract a large gathering of enthusiasts, although the weather promises a contrast to sunny Saturday.

The programme will open at 2.30 p.m., the big race being the May Handicap "A" Class, over a distance of one and a half miles. It should provide an easy win for Sitting Bull. My selections are:

SILVER CRISIS HEDGING.

China's Currency.

"From the view point of improving the world-wide depression now prevailing, the reconstruction of the Chinese monetary system will constitute an important factor. However, the question of Chinese monetary system reorganisation may be settled apart from the silver question. China was originally a country of excess exports the trade returns of China show an excess of imports by 250 million taels per year, but the proceeds of China, other than foreign trade, amount to some 500 million taels.

"For this reason, alone China should adopt the gold standard. Since India has already adopted the gold system and its financial circles have been stabilized, the question is how to deal with a silver surplus of 20 million ounces per year. The pre-eminent question, however, is not the question of silver, but the thorough reconstruction of the industrial condition of the whole world."

THE DAVIS CUP.

AMERICA LEADS CANADA
IN ZONE FINAL.

Montreal, May 23.—America has again taken the lead in the final of the North American Zone of the Davis Cup by winning the doubles match which was won by Dorothy Francis Shulman and Sydney Wood defected J. Wright and Marcel Rainville (Canada) 8-6, 6-4, 6-2.

In the singles each side had won one.

Rain interrupted the remaining two singles matches which will be continued to-morrow (Monday). When rain fell Sydney Wood (America) was leading J. Wright (Canada) by 8-6, 2-2.

Denmark beat Poland.

London, May 23.—Denmark defeated Poland to-day in the third round of the Davis Cup, and thus qualified to meet either Italy or Czechoslovakia in the European Zone semi-finals.

The winning match was secured by Ulrich who defeated Helebi (Poland) 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

In the last match of the contest, Tlaczynski (Poland) beat Henriksen (Denmark) by 6-2, 6-6, 6-3, 6-2. Denmark thus winning by three matches to two. —Reuter.

HOBBS' RETIRING.

FINDS THE STRAIN A BIT TOO MUCH.

London, May 24.—Concluding his active association with county cricket at the end of this season.

Although his contract with the Surrey Cricket Club does not expire until the end of the 1932 season, he has asked the club to allow him to retire in 1931.

Hobbs' son, interviewed by a Reuter correspondent, said his father who is forty-eight, would not entirely give up cricket, but is finding the strain of constant matches too much. He intends, however, to turn out occasionally for Surrey next season. —Reuter.

Mad Marriage.

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN.

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Gypsy McBride, 18-year-old typist in a New York office, meets Jim Wallace at the door of her hotel room. Jim, a "Treasurer," is miserable because she has learned Alan Crosby, back from a year and a half in Paris studying art, "no longer cares for her." Wallace tells Gypsy, "I don't care about him either. I invite the girl he cares for because Gypsy to marry him. They are married next morning and depart for Forest City, his home town.

At home they are greeted by his aunt, Miss Ellen Wallace, who immediately becomes hostile to the girl. After a few days, Miss Wallace invites Gypsy to a dinner party where she becomes a family dinner party, where Gypsy is snubbed by other relatives. This enrages Jim and they leave. Next day Gypsy receives a letter from Jim, and after some persuasion, returns it. Jim undertakes the defence of Nina Roberts, accused of murdering her employer, Dr. Fowler. The case is sensational with the public, and Gypsy becomes deeply interested in the murder case and persuades Jim to take her to see Nina Roberts.

CHAPTER XXVI

Gypsy's hand trembled on Jim's arm. "I'm all right," she said, "only it seems so awful to be in a place like this."

"I told you you shouldn't have come," Jim reminded her.

"But I don't mean for myself, I mean for prisoners—people accused of committing crimes. Those bars at the windows and heavy chains aren't they horrible?"

"Yes, but they're necessary. It you see some of the crew they have here you wouldn't be so sympathetic."

The jail guard returned with a large woman dressed in blue. She was introduced as Mrs. Sloan, the matron, and led them up a flight of stairs.

"Nina doesn't seem to be feeling very well," Mrs. Sloan confided. "I know what's the matter. She won't eat her meals."

"Does she complain of feeling sick?"

"No. Just doesn't eat and lies on her cot most of the time. I don't think she sleeps much." Her voice died away as they approached a tier of cells. This was the woman's tier of cells. Gypsy caught glimpses behind bars of several kimono-clad figures. Mrs. Sloan walked ahead, paused before a cell and inserted a key in the lock.

A girl was sitting inside with her back toward them, and at the sound of the key in the lock she swung around.

"Here's some company for you, Nina," Mrs. Sloan said briskly. "Go right inside, Mrs. Wallace." The matron waited while Gypsy and Jim entered the tiny place. Then she closed the door after them and locked it, promising to be back in 10 minutes.

"Good afternoon, Nina," Jim began easily. "This is Mrs. Wallace, my wife. She's been interested in what I've told her about your case and wanted to come to see you."

Nina Roberts stood up. She was taller than Gypsy but even in the ugly prison apron her figure looked slim and graceful. The feature of the girl's face that scared itself into memory were her dark eyes. They were large eyes—seeming even larger against her pallid skin. They turned on Gypsy with a feverish, questioning intensity. Nina's hair was dark brown, pulled back from her forehead and fastened in a knot at her neck. Her face was untouched by rouge or powder. Gypsy, who had seen the girl's photograph in newspapers, was shocked to find how different she looked.

Gypsy stepped toward now and put out her hand.

"How do you do, Miss Roberts?" she said. "I hope you don't mind our coming. I really feel I know you because of all I've heard of you from Jim."

Nina Roberts did not smile. "I don't mind," she said. After an instant she added, "Won't you sit down?"

There was one chair beside the cot in the cell. Gypsy took the chair and Jim leaned against the door. Nina resumed her seat on the cot.

A moment of awkward pause followed. Then Jim said: "You've had lunch I suppose? How's the food these days. Is it any better?"

"It's all right," Nina told him. She spoke in a low voice with scarcely any inflection. Her eyes continued to watch Gypsy.

"Sleep well?" Jim persisted.

"I guess so," Gypsy wondered why Jim did not realize such questioning was useless. She leaned forward. "Miss Roberts," she began, "I want you to know I believe you're innocent of this terrible crime and I believe my husband is going to prove it. I'm sure he will. You mustn't lose courage now. I only wish there were something I could do to make these long days pass more quickly—"

"Why should I want them to pass?" Nina asked, bitterly. "They're going fast enough."

The eyes of the two girls met. In that flashing instant Nina Roberts looked very helpless, very young. Gypsy went to her and slipped an arm about her shoulder.

MINERS' HOURS.

DATE OF BRITISH WORKERS' CONFERENCE FIXED.

London, May 23.

The Secretary for Mines, Mr. J. S. Shinwell, who leaves on Tuesday to attend the Conference of the International Labour Office at Geneva on Miners' hours, said that the impression abroad that failing International agreement there would be no settlement of the present difficult situation in the British coalfields was entirely erroneous.

The International Convention had nothing to do with the negotiations proceeding in the British Coal Mining Industry, in connexion with which there would be a meeting of Miners and Owners on June 4 to be followed on the 5th by a meeting of both sides with the Government. While it was important to get the International Convention in order to secure uniformity in working hours throughout Europe, it could not come into operation immediately, filming them and recording them with the portable sound trucks that followed them everywhere.

Harry Clegg plays Trader Horn. Edwina Bauth appears as Nina T. Duncan Ronalds as Peru and Olive Golden as the missionary. Thousands of native tribes are seen in the grand death dance of the Taorgi and other thrilling episodes of the production, which will open at the Queen's, Star and World Theatres simultaneously on Thursday. The picture took two years in the making, and covered over 25,000 miles on "location trips."

Light Opera from Stage.

Just to what extent Vitaphone has revolutionized business methods in the film industry is illustrated by the arrangements made by Warner Bros. for the presentation of "The Desert Song," one of the most successful light musical works of recent years, as a talking and singing motion picture.

One of the particularly intriguing things about this operatic work is the romantic colour of its story. Heretofore when the story of a musical comedy appealed to a producer he acquired the rights to transfer it to the screen just as he acquired the rights of any stage work. In the finished picture of a musical work, however, all that remained was the title and the theme song, the latter being retained for the accompaniment of the action by the theatre orchestra. This was sufficient; it was all that could be used. This day has passed.

In securing the rights to "The Desert Song" the Warner obtained the entire musical score and the libretto as well. In other words, they bought all the rights just as if they were to produce the musical work on the legitimate stage.

In presenting "The Desert Song" on the screen all of its original numbers have been retained. The score is played by the Vitaphone symphony orchestra of 100 musicians. It was the intention to make an even more imposing production of the musical comedy on the audible screen than did its original producers on the legitimate stage. The screen has this advantage, all of the desert scenes can be taken out in the open.

The "Desert Song" now at the World Theatre, in addition to a cast including John Boles, Carlotta King, Myrna Loy, Louise Fazenda and others, has a chorus of 100 voices.

"I suppose you read about that Loring girl marrying Brock Phillips," she said. "My, what a surprise that was! Maybe I shouldn't say it to you, but of course you must know the whole town expected Marcia to marry Jim Wallace. Only girl I guess Jim ever went with. Well, that's the way it goes. You can't tell about men. No, indeed, you certainly can't. Did Jim know about it before he read it in the paper?"

"Why, really, Mrs. Butterworth?"

"Oh, I suppose I shouldn't have asked. Only, of course, you know there's bound to be a good deal of talk. That's why I wanted to have the straight of it. Well, I guess Marcia Loring's getting a sight more money than she's ever had before. The Loring's didn't have much, you know. He was in the bank here but outside of some insurance and real estate there wasn't much left. Their going east must have been what broke up the match between Marcia and Jim. And last summer when she was visiting out here he was so devoted to her!"

"Oh, Sam, he didn't—" "See for yourself, ma'am. I've told you before there can't be much garden so long as that dog's allowed to dig and scratch wherever he takes the notion. I know what I'd do with Jim if he was mine! I know that all right enough!"

Gypsy hurried around the house. Sure enough, there were her worst fears realized. A hole the size of a bushel basket in the centre of the precious tulip bed and high on either side of it mounds of soft, fresh earth.

"Oh, Sam!"

Broken flower stems and mangled blossoms showed in the wreckage. Gypsy reached down and tried to raise to life one of the half up-rooted plants. Pat, unaware of the damage he had wrought, came close to her, his head slightly to one side, eyeing the gaping hole. He was evidently proud of it.

Gypsy took the dog's head between her two hands. "How am I going to teach you?" she said sadly. "that you mustn't dig in the garden?" You've been a bad dog, Pat. I don't like you when you tear up the flowers. I don't like to have the garden spoiled!"

She shook her head at the terrier. Pat eyed her in a puzzled dejection.

"If he was mine I'd teach him quick enough!" Sam spoke up crossly.

Gypsy rose. "Do what you can with the tulip bed," she told the man. "I'll talk to Mr. Wallace about stretching up a piece of wire fencing." She could hear Sam growling to himself as he led Pat toward the house.

SIR AUREL STEIN.

SCIENTIFIC EXPEDITION'S RESEARCHES STOPPED.

Peking, May 23.

In response to repeated petitions from the Society for the Preservation of Ancient Relics, which has been agitating since last year for the expulsion of Sir Aurel Stein, the Governor of Sinciang province has ordered the noted archaeologist to leave the province.

It is learned that Sir Aurel Stein accordingly started for Home from Sinciang on May 18, abandoning his scientific expedition whose work has been hampered lately by the Sinciang authorities—Reuter.

CINEMA NOTES.

"TRADER HORN" THIS WEEK.

A royal "casting office" was employed by Director W. S. Van Dyke when he filmed the opening scenes of "Trader Horn" in British East Africa. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer drama, which is based on the famous book of adventure of the same title, opened with a great procession of natives bearing ivory to barge.

Being thousands of miles away from Hollywood's Central Casting office, the director naturally had to make his extras by other means, so, when he arrived at Panyamur, Uganda province, he sought audience with the native sultan.

For a wagon load of trade goods he rented more than two thousand natives, in fact the whole village, from the sultan, and used them to film scenes in which Duncan Ronalds and Harry Carey watch the cavalcade of ivory-bearers.

Van Dyke and his safari, following scenes at Panyamur and at Murchison Falls, in the tectic and flying sickle fly country, proceeded into the Belgian Congo, hunting out wild elephants and other beasts of the jungle, General Exchange and Banking Business transacted. BANKRUPTCY COURT CASES.

APPLICATION STATED TO BE "IMPROPER."

The Official Receiver (Mr. E. L. Agius) opposed what he called an "extraordinary application" in the Bankruptcy Court on Saturday morning, before the Chief Justice (Sir Joseph Kemp), the application being made by Mr. E. S. C. Brooks on behalf of Chung Chu-ke.

Mr. Brooks applied for the bankruptcy petition to be withdrawn, explaining that creditors had considered the matter and were willing to let debtor try and rehabilitate himself, so much so that they were prepared to trust him with further contracts.

The Official Receiver said that such a procedure would violate the principle of the law of payment. He stated that debtor filed his petition on June 14 as a protection against a Summary Court Judgment. It was shown that 35 creditors, who were treated as one, had agreed to accept 10 per cent, in cash and 20 per cent, by notes of acknowledgment, to be paid by instalments within four years. Another ten had agreed to postpone their claims. The "outside" composition suggested would not have any of the safeguards of the Bankruptcy Ordinance, and if it was desired to effect an arrangement it could quite easily have been done in accordance with the Bankruptcy Ordinance.

Improper Application.

The application, he said, was a most improper one. He asked that the application be dismissed and adjudication granted.

Mr. Brooks remarked that the judgment against debtor did not seem to have any application, as if the petition was withdrawn the judgment could be enforced against him.

His Lordship said he thought it was a case in which leave for the application should not be given. The proposed arrangement violated the general basis of bankruptcy law and, in his opinion, the arrangement would not enable debtor to rehabilitate himself in trade, as he would have claims hanging over his head all the time. As the interests of the public had to be considered, as well as those of creditors, he thought, it was a case where the bankrupt should take up its ordinary course. The application would be dismissed and adjudication would be granted.

Debtor Complimented.

It is not often I have the opportunity of complimenting debtors in this Court, and I do not want to miss the opportunity," said the Official Receiver in the case of Mr. J. A. Lopez on application for discharge.

Mr. Lopez said that no bankruptcy offence had been committed by debtor and his conduct had been most satisfactory.

In discharging debtor forthwith, his Lordship said it seemed to have been an unusually good case both as regards dividend and conduct.

With regard to Han Pak-yan, on application for discharge, the Official Receiver said debtor's liabilities were principally due to Indian money-lenders. It was a well-known fact that borrowers were compelled to sign for double the amount they received, and he thought that a 40 per cent. dividend would be equitable under the circumstances. Debtor's conduct had been satisfactory and he had committed no offence under the Bankruptcy Ordinance.

His Lordship made an order for discharge.

Conditional Discharge.

The evidence has not been considered sufficiently strong to send the papers to the Attorney General for consideration of what proceedings should be taken against debtor," said the Official Receiver in the case of Suen Iu, trading as Tak Kee stall and Tai Cheung stall.

He continued that debtor had exhibited a great lack of candour with regard to property, particularly in regard to his public examination. A dividend of 27 per cent. had been paid and debtor's failure was due to loss of trade, the closing of many tea houses, and inability to collect book debts. In view of debtor's conduct, Mr. Agassiz suggested that his discharge be suspended for 12 months, conditional upon his consenting to judgment for $5,000, so that in the event of further assets being discovered the judgment could be enforced against him for the benefit of creditors.

SUCCESSFUL RE-UNION DINNER.

A successful re-union of past and serving Royal Engineers was held at Messrs. Lane Crawford's on Thursday evening, the 21st May. The dinner was held to coincide with the Annual Dinner held at the May Fair Hotel in London and telegrams of greeting were exchanged with brother officers dining in London.

Debtor said he was prepared to consent to judgment for that amount, and his Lordship made an order in the terms stated by the Official Receiver.

more often it is the drama of simple human emotions in strange surroundings. The incident of the French girls from across the canal is just one of the thousand incidents faithfully pictured.

Now you can see Erich Maria Remarque's world-famous book in its emotional power, transferred to the talking screen with an amazing fidelity—without one iota of compromise to "movie" tradition. Come and see the human side of war as seen through the eyes of Youth.

Rome, May 23. Sig. Benito Mussolini was slightly injured during his customary morning ride when his horse after a very high jump fell on his knees. The Duke was thrown and received minor injuries to his face. They were promptly treated and Sig. Mussolini was able to receive the delegation of Bulgarian gymnasts shortly afterwards.—Reuters.

CHARGE AGAINST MR. CHRISTIE.

COURT OFFICIAL'S SUDDEN ABSENCE.

CASE ADJOURNED.

A further adjournment until May 27 of the proceedings against Colonel James Christie was ordered in H. M. Police Court on Thursday morning owing to the unexpected absence from Shanghai of the Registrar (Mr. C. H. Haines).

Mr. Christie is charged with obtaining approximately $28,000 from Mr. Lee Ching-ku, drill instructor to the Taihsing (Kiangsu) Protection Corps, by false pretences, it being alleged that he failed to supply 200 rifles and 50 pistols in return for such sum.

In opening the proceedings the Chief Clerk of H. M. Supreme Court (Mr. C. G. O. Anderson) said that the responsibility of continuing the inquiry in the registrar's absence, devolved on him. He proposed to recall the witnesses who had given evidence, and, upon their being re-sworn, to put to them the evidence they had given for the purpose of obtaining their assent thereto.

Waste of Time.

Mr. M. Blumfield Brown, prosecuting, suggested that in order to avoid waste of time the witnesses should merely be asked to signify whether the evidence they had already given was correct, after which Mr. Anderson could acquaint himself with the details of the proceedings by reading the depositions as contained in the Registrar's notes. He could not see the advantage of having the evidence read all over again; because of the necessary interpretation such a course would require a lot of time.

Mr. Tycho Wing, defending, questioned the propriety of Mr. Brown's suggestion. Was it good enough in law? He very much doubted it. In his experience, if a new judge took over a criminal case, everything connected with it had to be gone over again.

Mr. Anderson: May I suggest an adjournment until next week? You, Mr. Wing, will be engaged in the other court on Friday and part of Saturday and Monday are holidays. Mr. Haines will be back by Wednesday. He left this morning and I did not know until a late hour last night that he was going away at all.

Amoy Road Gaol.

Mr. Wing: The trouble is that my client is in custody. While Amoy Road Gaol is run on most excellent lines it is still by no means what one could call a weekend resort.

After a consultation with Mr. Brown, Mr. Wing said that they realized the value of Mr. Anderson's proposal to adjourn. He would ask, however, that his client be allowed to go, under escort, to see friends with the object of arranging bail. He had been granted a similar privilege previously, but as the day on which he had then visited his friends was a Saturday nothing could be done. He (Mr. Wing) had never personally been able to regard Saturday as a working day, and undoubtedly others in Shanghai, including Mr. Brown, were of the same mind. The difficulties met with by his client could, therefore, be appreciated.

Mr. Anderson agreed to authorize the police to escort Mr. Christie.

Bail was set at one surety of $2,500, and personal recognizances of $5,000, conditional upon Mr. Christie depositing his passport with the Court.

MARTYRED LADY MISSIONARIES.

Vain Attempt to Find Bodies.

VILLAGERS FLEE.

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Foochow, May 23. Lawless elements appear to retain complete control of the shocking situation in the interior of Fukien.

Quite recently an attempt was made, at the request of the Church Missionary Society, it is understood, by a party of soldiers to find the remains of Miss Nettleton and Miss Harrison, who was done to death by Communists in September last, near Chungan.

The soldiers were led by two Chinese members of the C.M.S. but when the party approached the village, where the tragedy took place, every one of the inhabitants took to his heels and there was no one to give any information.

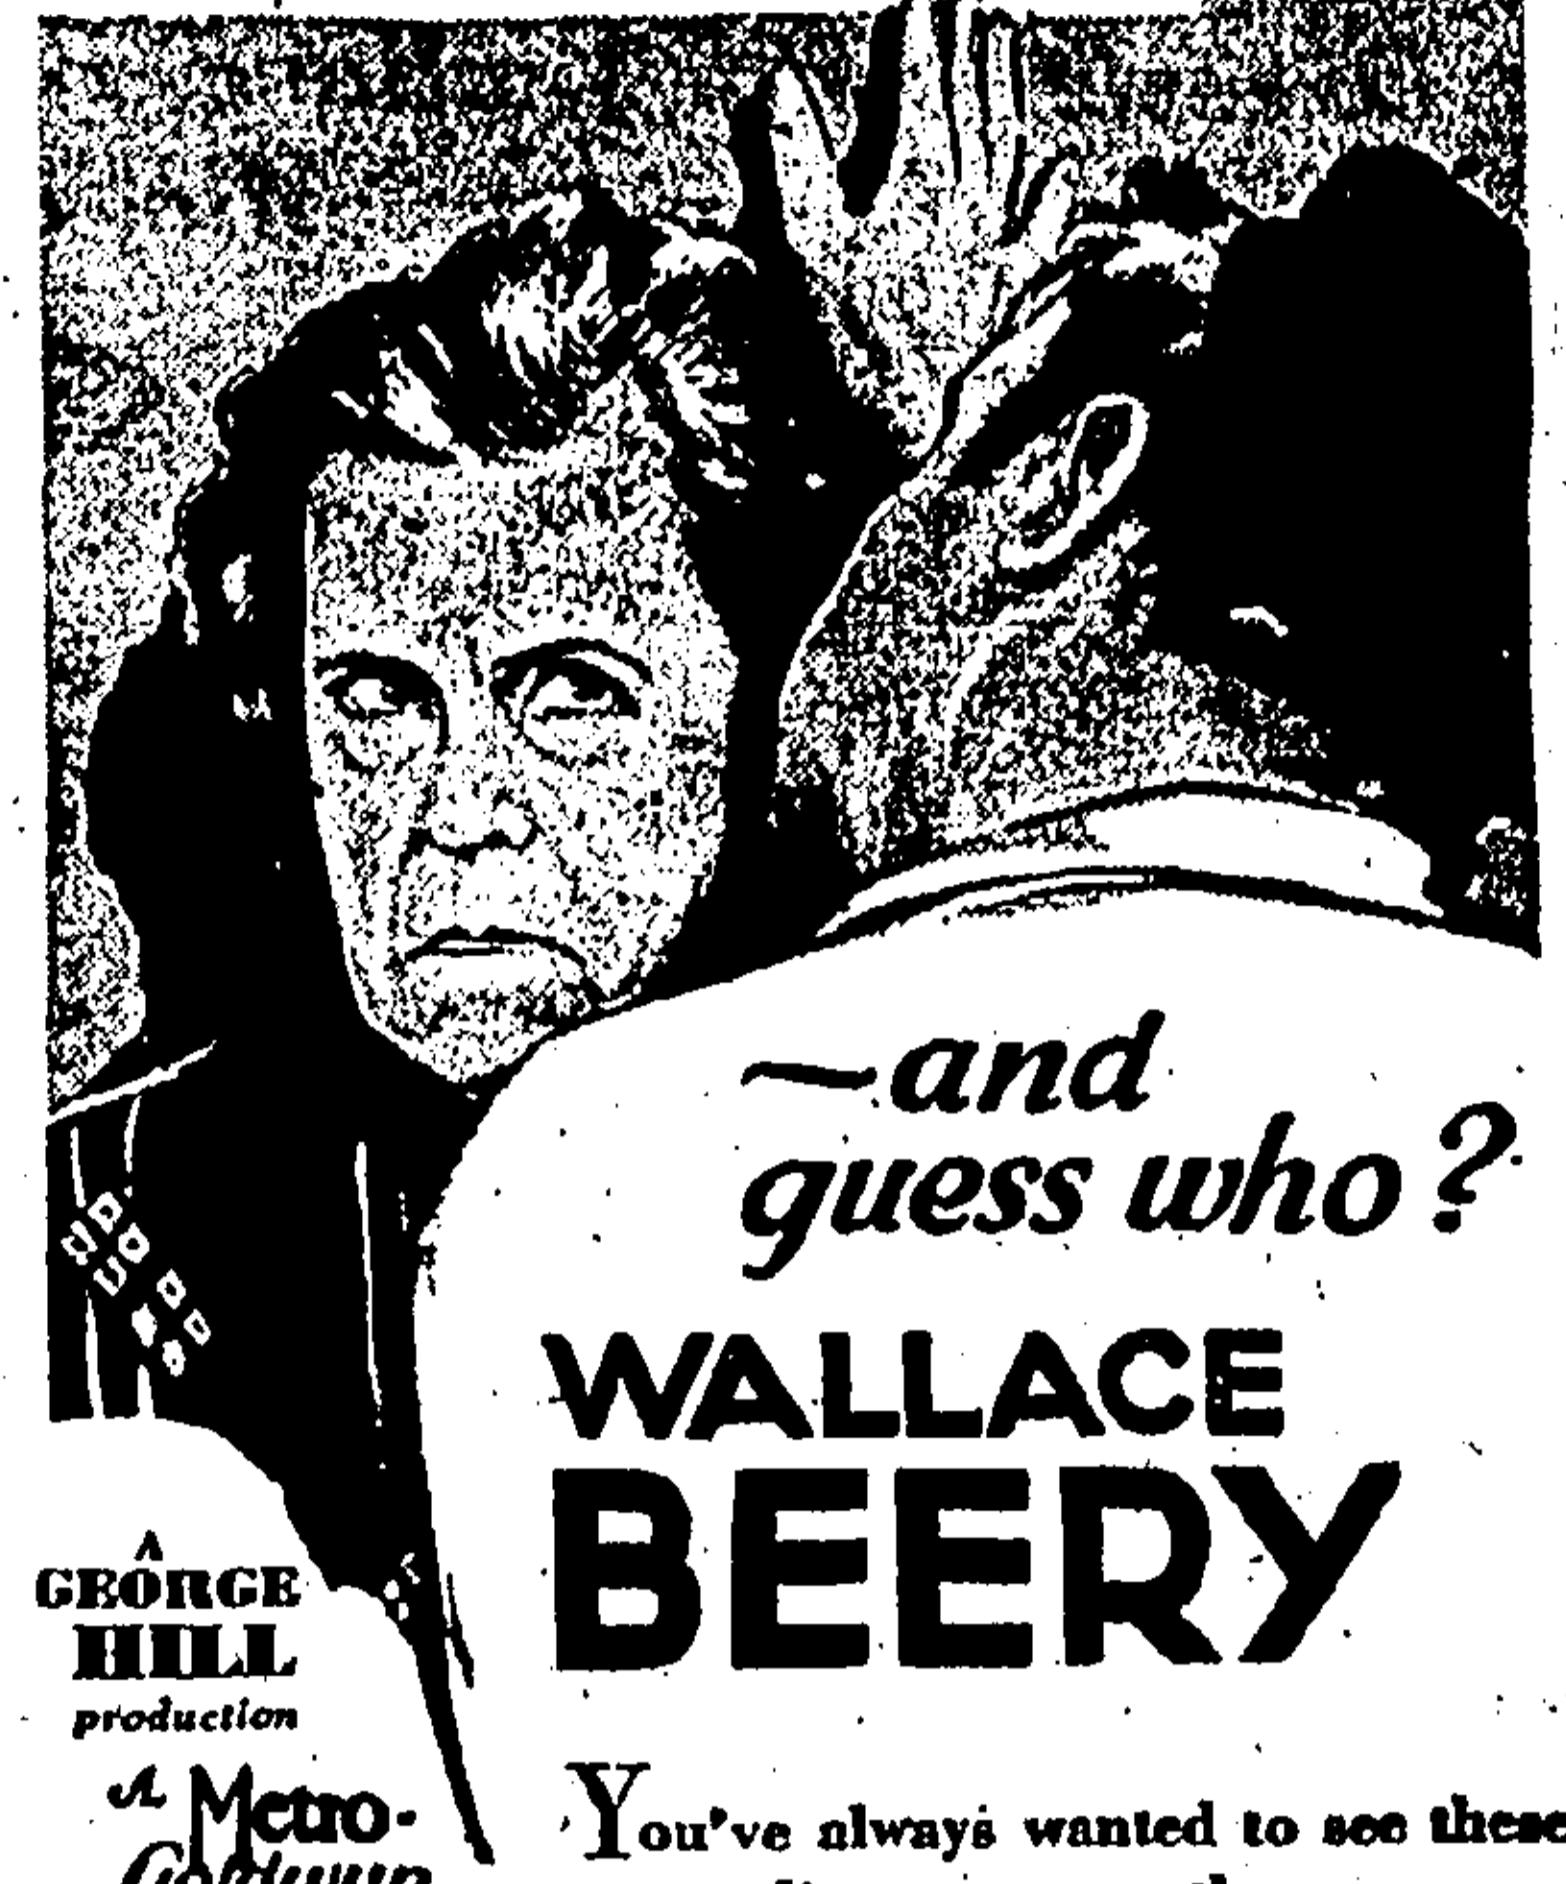

This is not surprising, for the village was the seat of the local Soviet Government. The people have been so terrorised that not one of them would dare give information to friends of the martyred ladies.

Since then it seems, the soldiers are fighting a losing battle against the Communists in the region, as the latter have been reinforced by large numbers from the Kiangsi border, fleeing from the war over there. Bad accounts are given by missionaries from up-river, some of whom state that in their opinion the trouble has not yet "touched bottom" and that there may be worse times in store than any we have had yet.
